Monika Leska, Sr. Proposal and Project Specialist, is responsible for managing the discovery, production, and submission of proposals while maintaining accurate data on the status of proposals across The Water Institute. Monika has over 15 years of experience acquiring and managing projects within non-profit, government, and corporate environments. She obtained her B.A. in Mediterranean studies and her B.S. and M.S. in Organization and Management of Tourism and Recreation. She has also volunteered with environmental and climate organizations for over 13 years. With a background in project and proposal management, funding strategy, and environmental work, Monika brings a unique understanding of The Institute's project management needs to her position.

Monika's experience in organization-wide fiscal management, streamlining workflows, technical editing, and grant tracking tool building and implementation further strengthens The Institute's ability to secure and manage projects effectively and identify where gaps in process efficiencies can be addressed. Her process optimization and financial oversight skills contribute to The Institute's long-term strategic priorities and ensure projects align with funding priorities and compliance standards without duplicating efforts. Monika is currently pursuing a highpointing of the continental United States with 19 US state peaks summited so far.
